Teams start course at 1pm

Join us on Sunday, June 24th, for the 66th Full Moon Rallye. This walking rallye will start at the center of Franklin Square (Race and 6th/Franklin Streets) at the fountain. Teams will have four hours to walk around the area following instructions and looking for answers to clues before finishing up at Roy-Pitz Barrel House (990 Spring Garden St).

What is a Rallye?

Competitive walking event

Object: find & answer the most clues

- Travel around Center City
- Look for different types of clues as you walk (about three miles)
- Do not need to be familiar with area
- NOT a speed event
- Four-hour time limit for race
- Afternoon event
- Teams of two can enter
- Time to hang out at finish of race
- Medals for top 3 teams + winner gets Cup

A rallye is basically a scavenger hunt on foot. Each team (of 2 people) is given a list of directions that they must follow to navigate through the course (e.g. Turn left at Wawa, or proceed straight until you come to a statue of Shakespeare). Along the way, the teams have to find answers to questions (e.g. Where do you find a $1.99 Super Hoagie?, or Who built the Shakespeare statue?). There are different types of questions with different point values (the harder ones are worth more). The team that answers the most questions correctly wins! The course is designed to be walked in less than two hours, so there should be no need to hurry - unless you are going way too slow. Along the way, your team may also have to buy certain items (called retrievables) to prove you were at a location, or to be used later in the rallye.

This rallye will again benefit the Idiopathic Ridiculopathy Consortium, whose mission is to bring classic absurdist theatre to an international audience in the Philadelphia region. These rarely-produced, renowned plays explore and illuminate human purpose and meaning, promoting reflection about the human condition in a contemporary world.
